Sterile Processing Professional Development Workshop:

Top Things Every Healthcare Professional Should Know about ANSI/AAMI ST79: 2017 and the 2020 Amendments A1- A4

The guidelines presented in ST79 are considered "recommendations for optimum performance levels in the processing of reusable medical devices in a health care setting" to ensure safe and effective patient care.

It is responsibility of everyone involved with the sterilization process to ensure that recommended practices, policies, and procedures are followed so that patient care is not adversely affected. This course will elaborate on the intended purpose of the document with details about key changes from previous revisions including the four recent amendments from 2020 and published in 2021.

Practical applications about the documents that every sterile processing person should be familiar with will be reviewed.
